By Delegates to Roumanian Convention in Session Here

TREASURER AND EDITOR

Make Reports of Newspaper "America" Published by Union—Convention Continues Until Monday.

Just a taste of the cares that beset the business and editorial management of a newspaper is being enjoyed by the 100 delegates to the Union of Roumanian Beneficial Societies in the United States, during their session in Newark. The business of the convention up to the closing hour Saturday consisted in hearing reports of the editor and treasurer of "America," published in Cleveland, by the organization. Outlining the policy for the ensuing year was part of the duty of the convention.

Sunday will mark the beginning of other business of the union in its effort to unite the 100,000 Roumanians of the United States. This program includes adjustment of the membership assessment and a discussion of means for increasing the membership. One of the chief difficulties with which the society is meeting is in its effort to teach its people the purpose and advantages of such an organization.

Beneficial organizations such as are found among foreigners in this country, are rare in Roumania, consequently the duties of membership are hard to impress upon the natives of that country, say leaders of the organization. Yet, once they understand the objects, they become enthusiastic workers for the cause of common good of their countrymen.

Officers for the year were not elected Saturday, but this feature will be taken up in the regular order of business of the union.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—Paul Stensland, former president of the Milwaukee Avenue State Bank who absconded with $500,000 of its funds in 1906, is devoting his life to repaying losses of depositors. This announcement was made in an address last night at a dinner of the Association of Commerce by James Keeley, who traced the banker to Morocco where he was captured.

Stensland was brought back to Chicago where he made a full confession in which he cleared Henry W. Herring, cashier of the bank with being responsible for the balance of the shortage of $2,000,000. Stensland served four years in the penitentiary. Herring also served a term in prison.

MOUNTAINEERS SURROUNDED

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
Pineville, Ky., Dec. 27.—A sharp battle between militia and the Henrickson clan of mountaineers is expected soon at Four Mile, near Ely, Ky. Assistant Adjutant General J. T. Ellis of Frankfort and the Pineville company of state troops started this morning to the mine where the Henricksons are supposed to have taken refuge. It is known that the Henricksons intend to give battle and it is estimated that there are about twenty of the clan concealed in the mine shaft. There are 35 picked men in the company of militia. The trouble started on Wednesday when Jack Henrickson killed a man and after reaching his home near here gave battle to the sheriff's posse. One of the Henrickson party was killed by the posse. After this skirmish the Henricksons fled to the mountains and were traced by bloodhounds to the mine shaft. Since yesterday the civil authorities have kept a close watch on the mine.

BATTLESHIP OHIO
CAN'T LAND CREW
WHILE STORM RAGES

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
Lewis, Del., Dec. 27.—The battleship Ohio which arrived at the Delaware breakwater from the South Atlantic coast on Christmas day with smallpox on board, is still waiting for the weather to moderate to land the crew for the purpose of fumigating the ship. A succession of gales have prevailed since the Ohio arrived, kicking up a heavy sea that has made the launching of boats almost impossible. There has been no communication with the ship from shore, all reports as to the condition of the smallpox patients being sent by wireless to Washington. Nearly 1000 men are aboard the Ohio and whether they will be held at the quarantine station at the Delaware capes or returned to the ship after it is fumigated could not be learned.

HOTEL GUESTS DRIVEN INTO
STREET BY FIRE

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
Cleveland, O., Dec. 27.—Thirty families and eighty guests at the Perry Hotel, Woodland avenue and East Twenty-second streets, were driven into the street early this morning when fire damaged a three story brick building which housed the hotel, the Perry theatre, a bank and several stores and family suites.

The hero of the blaze was John Caldwell, a negro, who was sleeping in the rear of the building, just above the basement where the flames started. He was awakened by the smoke and ran through the building, arousing the occupants. Several women and children were carried out unconscious. One hundred and fifty persons were forced to flee in only thirty minutes. It was at first feared that a number of hotel guests had been suffocated in their beds but a search of the ruins revealed no fatalities. An ornate fireplace is blamed for the fire. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

FIRE EXPLODES
MANY CARTRIDGES

Zanesville, O., Dec. 27.—Residents of Frazeyburg, near here, were awakened by a fusillade of shots and found the hardware store of Max Frazer & Son enveloped in flames of unknown origin. Bullets from thousands of cartridges in the store drove a score of nearby residents to the outskirts. Twenty more houses were penetrated during the shower of bullets. The loss to the store is $10,000.

These views of Pancho Villa, now in command at Chihuahua and most important general of the constitutional army, were taken at the time of his capture of Juarez from the troops of President Huerta. That was within the past ninety days. Most other photographs of the man are some years old.

Villa was a sort of bandit for many years. He is said to be cruel and as remorseless as most successful Mexican army officers who rise from the station in life where he began. He may become the most important character in the country if Huerta is overthrown. Carranza, the civil head of the constitutional government, may be overshadowed by a daring military character like Villa. Anyway, most of the observers of Mexican conditions look for a split of Carranza and Villa should the latter continue to be successful. They believe he might become the dictator in place of Huerta were he to march into Mexico City and overthrow the present government. That might mean another long drawn out war between his forces and those of Carranza.

BRIDGE MAN
IS STRICKEN
AT STATION

Death came suddenly to William Ramsey, aged 58 years, superintendent of construction for the Wisconsin Bridge company of Milwaukee when he was seized with an attack of heart trouble while waiting for a train at the Pennsylvania station.

He fell back into the arms of his niece, Miss Blanche Ramsey, who had accompanied him to the station, and died almost instantly. Dr. Carl Evans, who was summoned immediately after the man was seized, was compelled to turn his attention to Miss Ramsey, who suffered greatly from the shock of her uncle's death.

Mr. Ramsey came to Newark Friday for a visit with the family of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Margaret Hannigan of Lawrence street. He spent the night at their home and intended to start Saturday morning for Beaver Run, Pa., for a visit with other relatives. He was waiting for the train to Pittsburgh when seized with the fatal attack of heart trouble.

Bazler & Bradley's ambulance, which was summoned when the man was stricken, conveyed the body to their morgue in Fourth street, and Miss Ramsey was taken to the office of Dr. Evans, where she was given attention. Later she was taken to the Hannigan home in East Newark.

Mr. Ramsey's body was prepared for burial and will be shipped tonight to Milwaukee, via Chicago, where funeral services and burial will occur.

Mr. Ramsey was a practical bridge builder, being in charge of all the construction work of the firm which employed him. He is well known among bridge contractors throughout the country.

Tells Newspaper Man He Was Attacked Following a Conference With Citizens' Alliance in Hotel Friday Night—Announces He Will Return to Strike District Under Government Protection—Funerals of Victims of Calumet Disaster Planned for Sunday.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
Chicago, Dec. 27.—Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, who says he was beaten, shot and run out of Hancock Michigan, by a mob last night, arrived here this afternoon. He was taken to a hotel but later in the day will be removed to a hospital where a surgeon will probe for the bullet in the muscles of his left shoulder.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
Green Bay, Wis., Dec. 27.—Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, who says he was deported from the Calumet copper range last night, passed through this city early today.

He declared he had been shot, beaten and dragged through the streets of Hancock, Mich.

Moyer talked with an Associated Press representative here when his train arrived. His head was swathed in a blood stained bandage. He spoke bitterly of the treatment which he said was meted out to him. The train stopped here fifteen minutes and then proceeded to Chicago where it is due this afternoon.

"I was assaulted in the hotel Scott at Hancock by members of the citizens alliance and a man named Waddell Mahon, gun man," said Moyer as he drew the curtains apart and addressed the interviewer. Continuing he said: "I was terribly beaten, shot while I nthe dark and dragged more than a mile through the streets, threatened with death by hanging and finally placed aboard a Chicago train on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad about 8:50 o'clock last night. I was guarded by two thugs on the train until it reached Channing, Mich., about 2 a. m."

"A committee of fifteen led by an attorney for the Calumet Hecla Mining company named Pederman, had been in conference with me and had barely left the room more than four minutes, hardly time enough to get out of the hotel, when the mob appeared.

"I believe the strike is won in the Calumet district. I expect to return to Calumet in a few days under government protection, state and national."

"I have been trying to settle the strike. The governor and attorney general of Michigan, the latter having visited Hancock a few days ago acknowledged I have been doing my utmost to settle the strike. The terms I submitted were acknowledged to be fair. They admit I have kept my word with them, the state officials and local authorities."

When asked the question: "Is it true, Mr. Moyer, that the mine owners are willing to form local unions but are against unions being affiliated with the Western Federation of Miners?" He replied: "No it is not true. The mine owners are against organized labor."

MINERS WILL WIN.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
Chicago, Dec. 27.—M. J. Riley, Chicago representative of the Western Federation of Miners today received a telegram from Charles P. Moyer, president of the federation in which Moyer charged that he was shot in the back in his hotel room and dragged out of Hancock, Mich., by a mob of guards and members of the citizens alliance.

The telegram read: "Iron Mountain, Mich., Dec. 26.

"Tanner and myself were brutally assaulted in my room in the Scott hotel in Hancock tonight. I was shot in the back and dragged for more than a mile and a half through the streets of Hancock by a mob of Waddell-Mahon thugs and citizens alliance men, put aboard a Milwaukee train and threatened with death if I dared to return. But have the press say this for me, that the cause is well worth the sufferings which I have undergone. The cause of the striking miners is just and they will win."

Auto License Law Declared
Unconstitutional By Court;
Gov. Cox May Ask New Law

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
Columbus, Dec. 27.—Ohio's new automobile license law passed by the last general assembly to go into full effect January 1, was declared unconstitutional for a second time today by Judge E. B. Kinkead of the Franklin county common pleas court. Suit to test the law had been brought by C. C. James, Columbus president of the Ohio Automobile Association. It was defended by the attorney general's department.

Former Lieutenant Governor Harry L. Gordon of Cincinnati, was associated with the automobile men in the suit attacking the law and was one of counsel on that side.

The case probably will be appealed by the state, but before it can be heard by a higher court the legislature, which convenes in special session January 19, may be asked by Governor Cox to re-adopt the license measure in another form. The governor has not included this in his special session program, however.

Judge Kinkead decided several weeks ago that the new law was not a regulatory statute but was really a revenue measure, and as such was not in accord with the state constitution. After this decision the state adopted the attitude for defense that the law was an excise measure, intended to tax not the possession of automobiles, as a tax law would have done, but the use of them. The decision today knocks out this defense also.

The suit sought to enjoin Secretary of State Graves from issuing licenses under the new law. After the first decision, he instructed the automobile license department, which is under his jurisdiction, to return money which already had been received from automobile owners who applied for 1914 licenses.

THE TERRIBLE CASE OF MIKE MULLIKAN.

Down about old Boston town, in the district of Back Bay, Mike Mullikan had his being, and also ran a dray. But the Fates one day got after Mike, they would not let him be, and so one fine morning he had the pleurisy. Then followed coughs, sore throat and colds, and finally grippe and boils, and sunburn inflammation then—they got him in their coils. Mike also got some bruises, corns, bunions, burns and sprains, he had rheumatic symptoms and lumbago gave him pains. Neuralgia, toothache, telons, crowded fast upon his ill, tonsillitis and pneumonia then knocked him off his feet. The doctor said bronchitis, too, would come most any day, and it looked like Mike might have a job of riding his own dray. But just as death began to dance and the mourners all looked grim, a kindly good old neighbor said: "TRY GOWAN'S STUFF ON HIM." And so they took beloved Mike and rubbed him hard all day, and Mike sings Gowan praises now, and Mike still drives his dray. Gowan's is Sold and Guaranteed by all Druggists.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a glass of Salts before breakfast if your Back hurts or Bladder is troubling you.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurt, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive full of sediment, irregular of passing or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

CAPT. CORDRAY RETIRED WITH RANK OF MAJOR

Capt. David P. Cordray, son of Mrs. H. D. Cordray of North Fourth street has been greatly honored in the past few days for his service in the United States army. Capt. Cordray has been forced to retire from active service owing to ill health, and upon the eve of retirement has been promoted from the rank of captain of infantry to the rank of major, retiring with major's pay.

On Jan. 2, 1895, he was transferred to the 17th infantry, coming to the Columbus barracks on Jan. 5 of that year.

Major Cordray was named first lieutenant of the 17th infantry on April 26, 1898, and following this saw duty in Cuba with the chief engineer, 5th army corps, during the Spanish-American war. Later he was mustering officer at Columbus, O., and Augusta, Ga., and then recruiting officer at Evansville, Ind. He was also quartermaster and commissary on the transport Tartar, from Dec. 30, 1899 to March 14, 1900. From 1900 to 1902 he saw service in northern Luzon and Mindanao, Philippine Islands.

MAJ. DAVID P. CORDRAY.

Again he was in line for promotion and received the rank of captain of the 17th infantry, on Feb. 2, 1901. On June 24, 1903, he was transferred to the 26th infantry. As captain of the 26th infantry Capt. Cordray was located in Colorado, Texas, and again in the Philippines. Mr. Cordray resigned the adjutancy of the 26th infantry on July 6, 1907, on account of sickness. He was ill in the division hospital, Manila, from July 6 to July 23 of that year. He served in the office as chief of staff, military information division headquarters, Philippine division at Manila, and was sent on a confidential mission to China in 1907. On Feb. 23, 1909, he returned to this country, being stationed at Ft. Wayne, Mich., and later as recruiting officer in Albany, N. Y.

Again taken sick he was in the Walter Reed General Hospital at Washington, and had sick leave from Oct. 7, 1911 to March 10, 1912. Then he saw duty with his regiment, the 26th infantry, at Fort Wayne, Mich., and Texas City, Texas, on Jan. 19, 1913, owing to ill health. Major Cordray was again forced to take sick leave, until finally he was forced to retire.

The promotion to the rank of major upon retiring bespeaks of merited award for long and conscientious service in the army. Major Cordray is for the present staying at the home of his mother, in North Fourth street, this city.

"Kind sir, I haven't had a bite for three days," whined the tramp at the back door. "Well, if you miss it very much," replied the owner of the premises, "perhaps my dog can accommodate you. Sit 'em, Tiger!"

It is estimated that for every cat and every baby in the world the night's rest of seven adults is broken. As there is more than one cat or baby for every seven adults, it can easily be seen that the world is confronted by a serious problem.

Motion pictures produced on a scale so elaborate as to eclipse all past dramatic stage performances of the same subject is the present offering at the Auditorium where these wonderful films are being shown. The subject is one familiar to all lovers of emotional drama—"East Lynne"—a play in which nearly every prominent actor and actress of the English speaking stage has appeared at some time or another. That the amusement public was keen to witness this old emotional play in motion pictures was made evident by the large and fashionable audience present last night who were profuse with comments of praise at the conclusion of the performance. The pictures which require more than two hours to show, are staged elaborately and enacted by clever artists. Nothing has been left to the imagination. The success of the opening performance has fully demonstrated that the seemingly impossible can be accomplished in moving pictures, for there were times last night when the entire audience was moved to passion by the clever acting of the company of English players.

The engagement will continue through Sunday, with Sunday matinee.

"The Confession."

Consistency and honest value is appreciated at all times and in all things. It is the slogan which, when practiced in commercial life and in business, always brings best value and results. This rule applies to the theater as well, and is the logic and philosophy that James Hallett Reid has used in writing his play "The Confession" which will be seen on New Year's matinee and night at the Auditorium.

Mr. Reid has chosen his cast with the greatest care holding back the presentation of his master piece until he could obtain just the artists he desired, many of which, previously to this time, being otherwise engaged.

"The Confession" has enjoyed two long successful seasons on tour, after resting with a tremendous success at the Broadway Bijou Theater, New York City.

Croup and Cough Remedy.

Croup is a terrible disease, it attacks children so suddenly they are very apt to choke unless given the proper remedy at once. There is nothing better in the world than Dr. King's New Discovery. Lewis Chamberlain of Manchester, Ohio writes about his children: "Some times in severe attacks we were afraid they would die, but since we proved what a certain remedy Dr. King's New Discovery is, we have no fear. We rely on it for croup, coughs and colds." So can you. 50c and $1.00. A bottle should be in every home. At Frank D. Hall's.

FITZ TOO OLD.

(Associated Press Telegram)

New York, Dec. 27.—Bob Fitzsimmons, former heavyweight champion of the world, is too old to again enter the ring, even in ten round bouts, members of the state boxing commission say. On Tuesday when the matter comes up before the commission, the members will vote to prohibit the one-time champion from boxing in the state.

This action against Fitzsimmons, the members of the commission say, will be taken "for humanity's sake." They say that Fitz is too old to enter a boxing contest, and to allow such a bout would be in the light of licensing a farce. There is no objection to Fitzsimmons personally, except as to his age. He is over 51 years old.

SOCIAL AFFAIRS

An invitation has been extended to the Monday Talks by the Review club to be their guests at a concert given by Mrs. J. Morrison Thomas at the First Presbyterian church, January 3 at 3 o'clock.

Enjoyable in every detail was the annual Christmas dinner given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Honenberger, 28 Palakala street on Thursday. After a sumptuous turkey dinner had been served to about fifteen guests, all retired to the parlor, where a huge Christmas tree was enjoyed by old and young alike. Many beautiful presents were given and received by all present. As the day was also the birthday anniversary of the hostess she received numerous gifts in memory of the day.

Those who enjoyed the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Honenberger, W. R. Honenberger and E. J. Honenberger of Chicago, Mrs. A. Scottfield, Mr. John Strother, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beoney, Mr. and Mrs. Don Cummins and daughter Cleo, Mr. and Mrs. Sleno Strother and sons Carl, Frederick and Eldred.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Miller entertained all their children at their home east of St. Louisville on Christmas day with a dinner.

SMITH-DICKS.

At 11 o'clock Saturday, Dr. W. A. Smith of St. Louis, Mo., and Miss Bess Dicks of Pataskala were united in marriage by Rev. Dr. Hazlett at his home in Hudson avenue. The impressive ring ceremony was used and the wedding was witnessed by Miss Lena Fravel of Pataskala and Mrs. B. L. Cooper of Columbus.

Dr. Smith is a graduate of Ohio State University and is employed in St. Louis. His bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Dicks of Pataskala, and is an accomplished musician, having studied at Capital College in Columbus.

They left Saturday at 1:30 for St. Louis where they will make their future home.

The City Federation of Women's clubs through its club extension committee of which Mrs. Edward Kibler is chairman, has completed arrangements for the celebration of Christmas at the Riverside Social Center. The entertainment will be given on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Riverside School house. Rev. P. Franklin of the Trinity Episcopal church will address the children and guests. There will be a Christmas tree, gifts and a program, by the children under the supervision of Miss Alice Smith. The hearty co-operation of club women is needed and each of the ten organizations belonging to the Federation is expected to send its representatives to the social center on Tuesday evening.

Pennants adorned the walls of Assembly Hall, and the tables were laden with carnations, at the dinner dance given by the Alpha Pi fraternity Friday evening. The favors were the programs which were enclosed in black suede cases, bearing the fraternity pin, and a black and gold silk cord with the miniature pencil. A number of the alumni of the fraternity were present, and many of the dancers were holiday guests in the city.

Those attending were: Misses Leontine Moore, Minnie Staugh, Esther Graef, Olga Johnson, Alice McMahon, Grace Doyle, Mary Mahon, Katherine Sedgwick, Rhea Ingler, Helen Ingman, Lenora Phillips, Hannah Sullivan, Miss Alice Bott, Miss Snyder and Miss Bell of Columbus.

The Mystic club was very pleasantly entertained by Mrs. Bess Peepers in Webb street Tuesday afternoon. The afternoon was spent in embroidering and social conversation. An interesting feature of the afternoon was opening of the Christmas box, which was enjoyed by all.

At an early hour the hostess invited the members and guests to the dining room, where a three course Christmas dinner was served. The color scheme of the club, green and white, was carried out in the decorations of the table. Each person was given a favor of white narcissus; the same flowers formed a centerpiece.

The guests of the club were Mrs. Ray Peepers and the Misses Helen and Elizabeth Ballerstedt of Philadelphia, Pa.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Fred Schimmel in Gay street, January 3.

ARNOLD-McKIBBEN.

Intermingling with southern sim-lax, a profusion of holly and mistletoe, made beautiful the McKibben home in Elm street, Granville on Friday evening, when was solemnized the marriage of Miss Margaret McKibben to Mr. Oscar A. Arnold of New York City.

The wide stairway, was converted into a floral bridal path, and the rooms were bowered of Christmas greenery. The bay window in one of the parlors had been converted into an altar and was banked with palms and ferns, while on each side were placed tall cathedral candles. The bride rode in a gown of ivory tinted crepe de meteor, made a charming picture, the beauty of the gown being enhanced by the use of rare old lace, which had ornamented the wedding gown of her mother. The bridal veil was also the one worn by the bride's mother. The bridal bouquet was a shower arrangement of sweet peas and lilies of the valley.

The bride was attended by her two maids, Miss Marian Rose and Miss Mary McKibben. Both wore costumes of pink and white the foundation being of pink crepe de chine with over-dresses of white shadow lace. Their bouquets were fashioned of mistletoe and ferns, caught with streamers of pink chiffon. The ushers were Prof. Theodore Johnson of Denison and Dr. Paul S. McKibben of London, Ont.

The double ring ceremony was read by Rev. C. J. Rose at six o'clock.

Following the service, a wedding dinner was served, the appointments being in pink and white. The table was centered with a basket of pink and white roses and narcissus, and festoons of pink tulle.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold left during the evening for New York where they will make their home, the groom being a telephone engineer in the employ of the American Telephone company. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Arnold of Mt. Vernon, and is a graduate of Denison University. Last June he graduated from the Boston Tech. school. Mrs. Arnold has been a student at Sheperdson college and is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. G. F. McKibben. Mr. Arnold is a member of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, while the bride is a member of the Kappa Phi sorority.

The VanAtta home in Elmwood avenue was prettily decorated, the arrangements being suggestive of the holiday season. Holly and mistletoe predominated, and the wedding service was read by Rev. George Schmitt, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church.

The bride and groom were unattended. The bride was prettily gowned in white, and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses.

Following the wedding service a dinner was served to the immediate families. Mr. and Mrs. Frye will remain in Newark for a few days when they will leave for Cleveland, where they will make their future home. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James VanAtta of Elmwood avenue, while the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Frye of North Fourth street. Steinitz Was Defiant.

A story is told of an altercation between Wilhelm Steinitz and Gustave Epstein. The latter was one of the most influential and richest bankers in Vienna and was very fond of a game of chess. When Steinitz was a young man he used to play frequently at the Vienna Chess club and on one occasion engaged the famous banker. The game became very complicated, and Steinitz studied the board longer than usual. His opponent grew impatient and at last drew out sarcastically, "Well? Steinitz silently continued the game, and after a time it went in his favor. The banker then began to think deeply, taking considerable time before moving a piece. Steinitz could not resist the temptation to utter a long drawn out "Well?" "Sir, don't forget who you are and who I am!" roared Epstein angrily. Steinitz immediately retorted, "On the board you are Epstein and I am Steinitz; over the board I am Epstein and you are Steinitz!"

Cutting Out a Meal.

Physicians are commonly advising patients whose troubles arise from overeating—and these are legion—to cut out one meal, preferably breakfast. The London Lancet remarks that the reason for this is that "after a night's sleep the bodily strength, nervous and muscular, is at its highest, and work can be carried on without food. The machine is running strongly and no fuel is required for the time being." Men engaged in literary or intellectual work can often do their very best in the early morning before breakfast.

The Lancet deprecates the heavy breakfast and advocates the "coffee and rolls," which are all that is eaten for breakfast on the continent of Europe, especially for men whose work is of the brain rather than of the muscles. These men, it says, should "relegate anything approaching a hearty meal to the period of relaxation, the evening."

Whistler's Criticism.

Dante Gabriel Rossetti once showed Whistler a sketch and asked his opinion. "It has its good points, Rossetti," said Whistler. "Go ahead with it by all means."

Later he inquired how it was getting along. "All right," answered Rossetti cheerfully. "I've ordered a stunning frame for it."

In due time the canvas appeared at Rossetti's house, beautifully framed. "You've done nothing to it since I saw it, have you?" said Whistler. "No-o," replied Rossetti, "but I've written a sonnet on the subject, if you'd like to hear it."

He recited some lines of peculiar tenderness.

"Rossetti," said Whistler, as the recitation ended, "take out the picture and frame the sonnet."

Needed a Stronger Pull.

Jones, a new recruit, was sent out for target practice on the ranges. He did fairly well at 300 yards for a new one, but at 500 he generally managed to drop his bullets short. The sergeant patiently explained the raising of the sights and so on. But Jones still fell short. He saw the sergeant coming back. His "buddy" whispered to him. "Sergeant 'll ask you why," the "buddy" said. "He'll want you to tell him. I see what the trouble is. It's"—Here his voice was scarcely audible. The recruit fired away—short again.

"Why in blazes can't you shoot higher?" demanded the sergeant. "What's the trouble?"

"I've found out what the trouble is, sir," answered the recruit. "I'm afraid I haven't been pulling the trigger hard enough."—New York Post.

Austrian Censorship.

The Austrian censor used to play strange tricks with the plays produced under his auspices. When Schiller's "Maid of Orleans" was produced at Vienna, in 1892, the title was deemed too flippant and was replaced by that of "Joan of Arc." Agnes Sorel figured as the wife of Charles VII., and Queen Isabeau was transformed into that monarch's sister in order to save him from bigamy. Until 1842 messalliances were prohibited on the Vienna stage. When the burtheater wished to stage one of Freytag's plays in which Count Waldemar marries a gardener's daughter, the censor put his foot down. "These incidents," he said, "may unfortunately occur in real life, but they must not be seen on the stage."

It is well to admit occasionally to your friend that he knows more than you do. It gives him a great impression of your discrimination and good sense.—New Orleans Picayune.

With Ohio Club Women

Conducted by Mrs. Charles S. Rockhill, Chairman of the Publicity Department of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs.

Past Presidents Fund.

There was a most progressive note sounded at the recent meeting of Illinois Federation in an amendment made by Mrs. Starr Grainger, a former president of the Federation.

This amendment was that a plan for financing the work of every department of the General Federation of Women's clubs is the supreme body, where the views of all local clubs and all state federations should be focused, and where the will of more than 1,000,000 devoted women, the greatest influence for progress the world has ever known, should be put into practical operation.

"In the twenty-five years of its existence the General Federation has had the equivalent of about one quarter of a cent per annum from its directly and indirectly affiliated members."

"Our three honored presidents, Mrs. Ellen Henrotin of Chicago, Mrs. Dimes T. S. Dennison of New York, and Mrs. Philip N. Moore of St. Louis, have evolved a plan whereby every department of work can be thoroughly financed for two years so that the great power of the women's clubs can be thoroughly demonstrated."

They propose between now and the next biennial to be held in Chicago in June, 1914, to raise $250,000 and present it at the meeting, unhampered by any condition except that it is not to be added to the endowment fund—but is to be used at once to finance the various departments of work.

"And they propose to raise this money without asking you as an individual to put your hands in your purse for a single cent. They will not apply to your local club for one dollar, and they do not ask your state body for anything but co-operation."

"When you return home and the plan of the past presidents' committee is presented to your home club, give it your individual and enthusiastic support. If you will do this, we can in June, 1914, give to the world the greatest evidence of the power of women and the women's clubs of America."

Woman President of a Railroad.

Mrs. Jesse P. Williams has been re-elected to the presidency of the Georgia, Florida & Alabama railroad, the only railroad in the United States that boasts a woman chief executive. Since Jesse P. Williams died last August, Mrs. Williams has astonished financiers in the big financial centers by her remarkable financial astuteness and executive ability in handling her deceased husband's affairs. The railroad has prospered under Mrs. Williams' administration and the board of directors who unanimous in agreeing that there was no reason why she should not remain at the head of the corporation.

Club Notes.

The Virginia Federation of Women's clubs is now fostering county school fairs, in connection with the State Educational Conference. Prize work from the schools will be exhibited. The railroads will transport the exhibits free. Great interest is being taken by the young people in the work.

The club women of Memphis have advocated a central market, and have the endorsement of most of the city commissioners. A study by an expert has been made on the best methods of handling produce.

The club women of Oregon have given a "Newsday" Home to the little "newsies." They let them manage it themselves. But the Portland women give them plenty of food and entertainment—and just a little advice, sometimes. They find it a good way to save the little change.

Jane Addams, representing the Woman's City club of Chicago, is organizing a co-operative and educational committee to concentrate on the political education of women, so they can use their own power with intelligence and unity on purpose.

The governor of Mississippi, at the suggestion of Mrs. Wright, state president of Women's Clubs, has issued a proclamation naming Sunday, Nov. 9, as "Purity Day" in the state. This is done to bring about the annihilation of white slavery.

The Parent-Teacher Circles of Portland, Ore., have spread all over the state, and are embracing and uniting both parents and teachers in strong bonds of sympathy and understanding that will bear rich fruit from now on.

The third Woman's Chamber of Commerce in the United States will be established in Des Moines, Iowa, upon a permanent basis this month.

He had been operated on for a goiter on December 4, in Cincinnati. He had been ill for some time and this condition seemed to grow suddenly worse Friday.

For 28 years Mr. Bobo had been a locomotive engineer. He was very popular in railroad circles and was the chief executive of the Brotherhood of locomotive engineers. He was a member of Knight of Pythias and of Newark Lodge, No. 37, F. & A. M. Mr. Bobo was one of the best known residents of the East Side and had a host of warm friends.

He is survived by his wife Mrs. Amanda Bobo, two sisters, Mrs. Benjamin Harris, Youngstown, Mrs. John Deemer, of Detroit, and a brother, William Bobo of Hagers-town, Md.

BURKE'S APPEAL SUBMITTED TO COURT IN BRIEFS

The case of former Patrolman C. O. Burke, dismissed from the police department several months ago by Safety Director Collier, who was in part sustained by the civil service commission, was submitted to the court of common pleas Saturday in briefs by counsel.

Saturday's proceeding was taken in course of the formal appeal taken by Burke from the civil service commission's finding. It is possible a decision may be handed down next week.

ALMOST NAPOLEON REINCARNATED.

A few days before he sailed for Europe on the trip which ended with his death on the Titanic, Frank D. Millet said to a friend in his studio: "Skobelev! How well I remember him! We used to call him 'The Madcap.' That was when he swam the Danube against orders, dashed into Plevna without reinforcements, and committed other little indiscretions of that sort which only a madman or a genius would attempt. Later I came to recognize him as almost a reincarnation of Napoleon. His ambition was literally about the same as Napoleon's. He wanted Russia to conquer the world. I stood with him once on the heights above Constantinople—it was in March, 1878, just before the treaty of San Stefano—when he outlined to me his schemes, which began with the absorption of the Ottoman empire, then extended to a conquest of India, and concluded with piratical designs on England in Europe. It was unbelievably naive, and I should have dismissed the talk as the veriest moonshine had I not been a witness during the preceding months to the man's rise from an inferior position, where he was under a cloud, to a lieutenant generalship, with which he had become the hero of the war. He was then the practical hand which Russia held on Turkey's throat. He died only a few years later, miserably, wasted, futile. A strange man, a great man, I think the most remarkable man I have ever known."—From "Skobelev, Russia's War Lord," by Richard Barry in the January Century.

IN HOLIDAY SPIRIT

By BARBARA BOYD

Going Home for the Holidays

If we go back home to see the home folks at no other time in the year, most of us try to do it at Christmas; for Christmas seems the season that makes the home ties draw most strongly. And so just now, throughout the length and breadth of the land, home circles are complete that are seldom so at other times.

Most of us go home with joy in our hearts; but greater than our joy is that of the folks waiting to receive us. We may be, sometimes, heart-sick and body-weary, and even the home love mean heaven to us. But often, too, we go from a busy, gay world, and to some, after a few hours or a few days, the home life seems dull and monotonous. And so we scurry around seeing friends, or we fret and grow impatient to get back to our own world.

But when we are inclined to take this view of our home-coming, let us take pause and think of the home-folks and of their viewpoint of the home-coming. Let us try to enter into their expectations, to see the event with their eyes, to feel what is in their hearts; and then perhaps we will not only get a different comprehension of what it all stands for, but we will really get a finer, purer joy out of it.

For perhaps it is the only time in the year when the home-folks can enjoy our presence, be near to us, talk to us, as in the old days before the home-circle was broken. And this is more to the father and mother than the children home for Christmas can ever hope to comprehend, until they, too, become the ones waiting at home for children to return.

And to the sister or brother who has stayed home, this coming from the great world of one of the family also means much. To listen to the tale of his work, of his pleasures, is like reading a chapter in a fascinating book in which a loved one is the hero. And to cut short from purely selfish motives, the giving of such keen pleasure is little else than cruel.

And in many other ways than by our mere presence, we can add to the pleasure of the Christmas home-coming for those who are at home. We can do many little things that will give joy, not so much by the mere doing of them as by the fact that we thought to do them, that we remembered the tastes or the little idiosyncrasies of the members of the family, and catered to them. In a word, we can show that love burns as brightly in our heart as it did when we left the home-nest. And whether we do this by having father's slippers by his chair when he comes in, or fussing over mother's collar as we used to do, or combing his hair in the latest city style, doesn't matter. It is the showing, in these little "homey" ways, of our love for them that counts.

And if this is the spirit that animates our home-coming, and stays with us all through our visit, and holds us lovingly and lovingly until the very last train, the Christmas home-coming will be more than a success. It will be a memory to keep the heart light all through the year, both of the folks at home and of the one who has again gone forth from the home-nest to do battle with the world.

The Improved Life-Preserver Did Its Unexpected Duty.

We are a practical people and we live in a commercial age. So we are prone to tell ourselves and our neighbors. But, at the same time, there are things going on around us everyday that certainly seem to give the lie to such a boast. Things that are as strange and unconventional as any that transpire within the realms of fiction.

Romance is not dead among us. Neither is the perpetration of the weird, the unusual, the amazing. Indeed, the very "quods" themselves must laugh when they behold the strange things poor mortals do in an age that boasts of its civilization, its culture and—most of all—its hard, common-sense.

If you wish to point the finger at "gods" in their meretricious art, or if you doubt the above statements, listen to the narrative of a few of the queer things that have happened in the year of our Lord 1913. Culled from the news of the day during the short span of the twelve months past they are, but a partial record of the odd things that have happened right in our midst. But they are amazing.

Ate Scales And All.

From the beginning, the college boy, when in frolicsome mood, has been considered an irresponsible, pestiferous fool. Also, he has been grossly libeled and made the butt of much undeserved ridicule. But surely just about the limit is reached when he eats a bowl of raw goldfish—to win a bet. And that is precisely what one of them did several months ago at one of the New England colleges.

For this there is some excuse for the deed since he was a freshman. At all events, he was sitting in a chum's room, along with several other students, when one of them dared him to put his hand into a bowl of goldfish on the table, catch a fish and eat it. The freshman hesitated. But when his tormentor bet him a quarter he hadn't the nerve to do it, our hero reached right in, caught up the wiggling, flapping, shivering goldfish, crushed it between his teeth and swallowed it in triumph—pocketing the quarter.

Still unconvinced, the tormentor bet him fifty cents he couldn't swallow another. He did. Moreover, before the picaresque prodigy quit he had exhausted the supply of goldfish in the bowl and had won $4.50 from his fellow students.

Out in Montana, on a Government reservation, there is an unusually fine tribe of Indians called the Blackfeet. They live in the open nearly the whole year round. So, when a party of them visited New York City during a very cold spell last winter as sort of combined guests-and-exhibits in an industrial affair, they refused to sleep in the steam-heated, electric-lighted rooms and went up on the roof, pitched a regular Indian encampment there and were comfortable.

Chief Three Bears, over eighty years of age, couldn't close his eyes within the walls of the fashionable hotel; but up on the roof, with the wind whistling around his tent and the snow falling, he slept in peace. So did Lone-Time-Skip and White Cat, both of them remarkably picturesque specimens of the American Indian at his best. And so, too, did the squaws and a little ten-year-old Indian maid.

There, above the eaves, whence they could look out over the city's artificial peaks and canyons, they pitched their tepees, cooked their meals and lived for all the world as though they were back in their native prairie.

The Freshman Caught Up the Wiggling, Flapping Goldfish.

All of which, obviously, interested and amazed New York, and that fact alone is worthy of giving the incident a place high up on the list of queer events of the departing year.

Other Cities Take Notice.

But "Old New York" makes still one more bid for fame in this respect. Actually—there are hundreds who saw them—actually siddy Gotham has policemen who have been seen running. Fat ones, too, and they really ran! Last May, along with other police reforms, someone with an insatiable crouch made a point that all fat policemen on the force should prove they could really run and thereby reduce their weight.

So, one night, eleven of the "foin-est" and fattest set out to run a race around the entire circuit of Central Park, a distance of seven and one-half miles. The winner, with a big wet sponge in his mouth, finished in fifty-two minutes—by his own watch. But all along the way, 250-lb. coppers could be seen in various stages of collapse, hanging on and over park benches, gasping for breath, groaning or calling down terrible maledictions upon the head of the individual who wanted to prove they could put one foot in front of the other faster than a walk.

An eminent surgeon of Stockbridge, Mass., while on a fishing trip, had a narrow escape from death last May that might well be labelled "unprobable" and it been utilized in a fiction story. Stork in quicksand nearly to his neck, he shook his rod and line and made a cast for his life at the top of a tree some fifty feet away. The tackle caught and held.

Then, steadily, slowly, with infinite patience, hand over hand along the stout, silken trout line, he managed to pull himself out of the quicksand to an old log. There he waited all night long. In the morning, a party of Boy Scouts came along and rescued him.

A Strange Superstition.

Like a scene from the Middle Ages, when "trial by battle" was the accepted method of an accused for proving his innocence, was that of a duel between an Italian and his wife in Denver, Col., last July. The husband accused his wife of unfaithfulness and she straightaway demanded the chance to prove herself innocent by fighting a duel with him with knives.

Doubtless, as in the ages of the past, she felt that some unknown power would strengthen the arm and heart of the person wrongly accused. Always, according to the ancient superstition, the accused, if innocent, would triumph; but, if guilty, would fall before the righteous attack of the accuser. Both husband and wife were badly cut up when the police finally broke down the door and separated them.

The hobble skirt, after all, it seems, has its uses. Last October a beautiful young Pittsburgh, Pa., woman, richly gowned in one of the new skirts, walked out to the middle of a bridge over the Monongahela river and jumped overboard. Striking the water seventy-five feet below, she sank only half her length and then, buoyed up by the air under her skirt (the "skit" being under water, of course) remained afloat. Even though she made desperate efforts to sink herself, the improvised life-preserver did its unexpected duty and she was finally rescued by a passing rowboat.

Cupid indeed takes strange means to bring about his ends. Last May a New London, Conn., man journeyed to Moberly, Mo., to claim the hand of a maid who, more than a year before, had written her name and address on an egg. Despite the cold storage life the egg must have led the writing on its shell, was not obliterated.

And even though the egg itself should have been a reminder that, at seventy-five cents a dozen, married life is nowadays considerable of a painful undertaking, the future bridegroom noticed "the handwriting on the wall" of the egg as he was about to break it for breakfast, wrote to the maiden fair and—presto—Cupid scored another!

To Teach How To Love.

Indeed, the field of matrimony and romance proved most fertile for queer events during the past twelve months. When, last July, a large packing firm in Chicago offered a check for $25 to any and all of its employees, both men and women, who married, and a wedding present of $50 to every head of a department who put his or her neck within the matrimonial noose—we mean "yoke"—Cupid doubtless chuckled in high glee.

But surely he must have had a regular "conniption fit" when he heard, last April, that a learned professor in Munich, Germany, had founded a school for the teaching of love and the encouragement of matrimony. The students will be given diplomas as teachers of love and are then to travel all over Germany boasting matrimony.

They will study such subjects as "The Dangers of Filtration" and "The Beauties of All-sacrificing Love" and "Laws of Affinity and Soul Attraction and Repulsion." They will be taught how to instill the ideals of love into the souls of rebellious subjects and—particularly—how to prevent the flight of love after the disillusionment of matrimony.

In more practical and decidedly appealing vein comes the story of a Chicago woman, said to be the owner of a large department store and worth twelve million dollars, who has at last married a sweetheart of her youth. He was a clerk in a Chicago store when she, as a young girl fresh from the country, came to clerk in that same store. But she married the proprietor of the small store instead of the clerk. He died nine years ago. Now she has wedded her former sweetheart—still a poor, struggling wage-earner.

Speaking of weddings, what do you think of one at which a widower has a dirge played, in place of the regular wedding march, in memory of his first wife? Well, that's what is said to have happened at the wedding of a vaudeville performer out in Indiana last August. More than that, as the groom and his newly won bride were leaving the altar after the ceremony the organist struck up a rollicking rag-time tune.

A couple living near Bloomsburg, Pa., celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary last March, which is not a particularly remarkable feat there really.

logical! In the very first month of the year a New York man filed suit against his wife for divorce, as the result of a dream he had about her. And this, mind you, after he had been married to her seven years.

He dreamed he met his wife in Paris with another man whom she introduced as her husband. When he awoke he asked his wife about it. So vivid had been his dream and so thoroughly did his wife's replies arouse his suspicions that he went to Paris, searched the always carefully executed French court records and found that his dream was true.

From marriage to animals is a far jump, but an interesting one. Witness, for instance, the feat of a cat last January when she put the town of Winsted, Conn., in darkness for three hours by climbing a lamp pole, in the extreme north end of the town, and either fell or jumped on the terminals, causing a short circuit. She lost all nine of her lives in doing it.

Cat and Canary.

Or, again, listen to the story of the cat in Reading, Pa., which "came back" under most unusual circumstances. When her mistress's pet canary escaped from its cage one day last August and took wing across the meadow, Tabby, gripped over the empty cage as sincerely as did any member of the household. So much so that she, too, disappeared. Not a claiming, "Don't touch that dog! He is mail matter and under the protection of Uncle Sam!" The dog-catcher was properly awed.

Butted a Uniform.

Last January a goat, mascot of the battleship New Hampshire and the pet of the sailors, butted his own way off the ship and took with him, under official order, all the cats, dogs, parrots, bears, other goats and inasmuch on the ship of the fleet stationed at Norfolk, Va. And it happened thusly:

Billy, for some strange reason, took exceeding umbrage at a very fine uniform on the deck of the ship. In fact he butted it so vigorously that it toppled over and mopped up a goodly portion of the deck. Of course such an act was irrefutable evidence of a lack of respect for the uniform on Billy's part. But perhaps the chief consideration was the fact that inside that uniform was the admiral of the fleet!

Early this month a giraffe was being shipped to the winter quarters of a circus near Duplo, Ill. Maybe it was curiosity; or it may have been simply that the animal had the kind of a neck that a giraffe has. At all events, the giraffe in question heard a bell ringing outside its car, stuck its head out to see if it was a signal for the show to begin and—presto—a switch engine tied the long neck into a couple of knots. But, remember, to kill a giraffe by its neck means that you have a long way to go; so, at last reports the curious one was doing very nicely in an improvised hospital.

For some reason, owls have always been considered wise birds. But from London, England, last March came a story that tends to show they are musicians as well. A certain Englishman there was startled to hear some one running the scales on his piano as he was unlocking the door to his apartment. He stooped down and peeped through the keyhole.

There, as enraptured as you please, was his pet owl very gravely stepping on first one key, then another, and cocking his head to one side the better to listen to the tone. Moreover, said owl displayed a surprising indifference to sharps and flats, but seemed to be particularly partial to the bass keys.

This Is a "Whopper."

No record of any year would be even begun without including a fish story. Here is one from Brainard, Minn. A hotel clerk—well, it might piece of paper but—a snake!

His Own Surgeon.

Of course, amazing things are continually happening in the world of medicine and surgery. But here are a few cases that are queer indeed. A Clarkfield, Minn., physician, driven to desperation by pain and his failure to find a surgeon who could relieve him of a growth that threatened to destroy his jawbone, stood before a mirror in his office, made an incision just below his left jaw, cut away the flesh from the point of the chin almost to the left ear, scraped the bone and then sewed up the wound. He was aided only by a nurse, who was the first to give way under the strain.

In a paper read before a medical society in Chicago a physician advocated the taking of tucks in the muscles that control the ball of the eye, as a means of straightening "cross eyes." For years, doctors have been snipping the muscles with small shears; but this physician maintained that by tightening up the muscle on the other side of the cross-eye, much as a man tightens one suspender, the cure would be effected.

From Berlin, last March, came the story of a queer find in the abdomen of a brewer's drayman. He went to a hospital suffering from severe pains in his abdomen and Röntgen rays revealed the presence of a foreign body inside him. An incision revealed a pair of artery forceps which must have been left there at one of two previous operations held, respectively, seven and three years before. For the shorter period, at least, the man had been doing his heavy work with this instrument in his abdominal cavity.

Many people make strange wills. A Berkeley, Cal., widow who died last July took queer measures to insure past all doubt that neither she nor her pet animals would be buried alive. She willed that her heart be cut out within twenty-four hours after the time she was declared dead and her body held seven days before burial. Also, that her pet animals be chloroformed within twenty-four hours of her death and their bodies held under water for the same length of time.

Gave Himself Up.

Crime is ever an interesting subject. And all the more so when something freakish in nature is unearthed. Last March a Columbus, O., man, indicted and convicted of blackmail, appeared before a U. S. District Judge and begged to be given the punishment to avoid which he had been a fugitive for ten years. While out on bail he had fled the country, thus escaping a thirteen months' imprisonment. Though he had changed his name and had prospered in a foreign land, his conscience troubled him so persistently that he was compelled to return and ask to be sent to jail to serve out his sentence.

Last April in Philadelphia a new trial was granted in a common pleas court during the hearing of an ejectment suit, when it was discovered that one of the jurors was a deaf mute. How he became a member of the jury and why he sat through the trial, unable to hear a word of the evidence or to speak, was a mystery which no one seemed able to explain.

Obviously, a burglar is not an honest man. And yet, an "honest burglar" appeared in Detroit, Mich., last April, when he found $18 in a jewelry case on the dresser of a home he had broken into and took but $2 of it. Moreover, he left a note which read, "Thanks, lady. I was hungry so I took the two dollars."

An even "more honest" burglar was the one who entered a house in California, Pa., found a child's toy bank containing thirty dollars and hooked a "big un." After towing him and his companion all over the lake the outraged pickler suddenly turned and leaped straight into the boat, clapping against the fisherman's shoulders as he landed.

In fact, the hotel clerk says he felt the fish's hot breath on a cheek and that his teeth rasped against his ear! The pickler was a seventeen-pounder and measured forty-one inches—not "liquid" measure—in length. But that is not all. The companion had to wallop the fish over the nose with a club and the hotel clerk was forced to bail the blood out of the boat with a minnow bucket to keep it from swamping!

While caring for a setting hen, a woman at Wood, S. D., last July, reached under the hen to remove one of the little chickens and—caught hold of a rattlesnake! She let go, before the snake could coil and strike; and when she came back from the house with a shotgun the snake had disappeared!

But a Junction City, Kan., woman went her one better the same day. She pulled on her long rubber boots to go out and tend to her ducks and felt something foreign in the toe of one of them. She did not pull it off to investigate as she supposed the children had stuffed paper or rags into it as a joke on her. Besides, she was in a hurry. Nearly an hour later, her work completed, she returned, sat down on the porch and pulled off the boot. Then she faints. For out of it dropped not a rag, nor even a tenbury. Several months ago he completed his first job—on a neighbor's pony. He takes the horse's hoof between his little legs and nails on the shoe with a little hammer made especially for him. He is said to have tremendous muscles and brawny arms.

A New York woman was purchasing a collapsible bathtub on the installment plan. Some sort of dispute as to the payments brought a woman and two men collectors to her home last week. The woman was taking a bath. But that made no difference. The woman collector forced her way in and kicked one of the legs of the tub; it did just what it was advertised to do—collapse. The bather and the water were spilled all over the floor. The men carried away the tub.

Out in Vanbruen, Ark., last July they found a man working enthusiastically away at a job that paid him fifteen hundred dollars though he was considerably more than a millionaire. "I became plumb tired of being a rich man," he said, "with nothing to do except play the society game and study new ways to kill time. I wouldn't trade my $1,500 a year for the biggest fortune in the world!"

Another man, heir to two million dollars, re-enlisted in the army at about $20 per month last February at Los Angeles, Cal., simply because he likes the life.

Asked For Breakfast.

Toward the end of the first month of 1913, a Ulysses, Pa., undertaker had the surprise of his life. In the act of making an incision in the arm of a "dead" man, preparatory to pumping the embalming fluid into the arteries, the "corpse" suddenly sat up, yawned and asked for some breakfast.

Up at Ketchikan, Alaska, the great American game is played under peculiar circumstances. Every time the tide goes out, the people close up shop and rush to the beach to watch the tide game. The settlement is so close to the sea, with the tide rising normally to the height of twenty feet, that it is built on piles. It is only when the tide is out that there is a chance to play ball.

A St. Louis steeplejack fell 110 feet from the top of a smokestack to a steel roof yet waved aside hospital attendants who came to remove his wounds and got up and walked over a half mile to his home.

There were strange "doings" in the florists' shops of Evanston, Ill., last March. Yellow chrysanthemums changed to an ashen color over night; white roses to pink and carnations to almost every shade in the rainbow. The florists maintained it was due to the hypochloride of lime put into the city's water to purify it; but the commissioner of public works insisted the lime had nothing to do with it.

More than that, women who wanted to remain brunettes backed up the florists; but those who desired to become "natural blondes" declared that the water was just the finest "wash" they had ever seen.

A few weeks ago in Chicago an edict was issued against horizontal plumes, aigrettes, pompons and other devices on Milady's hat which might tickle noses or scratch eyes. If necessary, it is said, the executive will pass favorably on an order similar to the one compelling women to remove their hats in theaters.

"The perpendicular plume which I see is coming into style," he said, "is all right. That is, so long as it does not interfere with trolley wires or exceed the building limit of 260 feet."

HAD ECZEMA TWENTY YEARS

And Was Cured Completely in Two Weeks Time by the Use of Goodhair Soap.

"Gentlemen: I have been sick, I may say, for the last 20 years; went to Hot Springs, St. Paul, Minn., and Indiana, and was benefited while there but when I came home it was the same old story. My God, I would lie awake at night and scratch until I was weak and exhausted. Then I might sleep for an hour, but my sleep would only be the cause of more torture when I would wake up. My itching seems to be the worst on my head, face, arms and legs. Sometimes the burning sensations are enough to drive me crazy. There are no sores of any kind on me only a dry scaly skin, or it is raw and very tender. I have spent a fortune in medicine, have taken a course of remedies by the dozen, would use a box of ointment in two days, I could not say how many bottles of medicine, but I must say I HAVE DERIVED MORE BENEFIT FROM GOODHAIR SOAP THAN ANY OTHER. I HAVE TAKEN IN SUCH A SHORT TIME, I CAN GO TO BED NOW, AND STAY UNTIL I AM READY TO GET UP IN THE MORNING—SOMETHING I HAVE NOT DONE IN TEN OR FIFTEEN YEARS.

I have three friends of mine who are so troubled, but they said they could not get that soap here. The drug clerk said he had not heard of it before.

I shall never forget the kindness of Dr. Hughes of Garrett, Ind. He has done everything in his power for me. Everything he has heard of he has told me to do, and now through his kindness, AND YOUR WONDERFUL SOAP, I hope to spend a few happy and peaceful days or months on this earth. Hoping you will send me a box of Goodhair Soap at your convenience, I remain, with many thanks for your trouble."

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Ladies! Try this! Darkens beautifully and nobody can tell—Brings back its gloss and thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant; remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While wispy, gray faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Agents, Hall's drug store.

HOME CHILDREN ARE ENTERTAINED AT THE ORPHEUM

Proceeds of Matinee Performance Go to Tots Cared for by Supt. and Mrs. Orr.

Forty-eight children, all the wards of the children's home, were made glad Friday afternoon by the philanthropy of Manager Evans of the Orpheum who entertained the children at the matinee. The proceeds of the performance, which amounted to $28.10, were donated to the children to be spent for necessities at the discretion of Superintendent Orr of the home. The children enjoyed the matinee which was presented by the "Original Happy Youngsters."

The play was one of the variety that please childhood as it depicted school scenes and was humorously characteristic of school life. Miss Eva Kerns, a Newark girl, who is with the company, with Jack McInerney, kept the children in peals of laughter.

More than one hundred and fifty people were turned away from the doors as the capacity of the theatre was not sufficient to accommodate them.

Superintendent Orr and his wife expressed their appreciation to the manager and each child shook hands with Mr. Evans.

The employees of the home were entertained by the Orpheum at the same performance.

First Things

The first development of Darwin's epochal and revolutionary theory of the origin of species through natural selection resulted from his memorable voyage on the brig Beagle, which sailed away from England eighty-two years ago today. Capt. Fitzroy of the Beagle, asked that a naturalist be supplied to accompany the expedition of exploration to South America, and a young man who had just graduated from Cambridge, Charles Darwin by name, volunteered for the place. For five years the Beagle cruised about South American waters, and the youthful naturalist, by the accumulation of a vast mass of scientific data and a close observance of the manifestations of nature, laid the foundation for his life work, which was to overturn many of the accepted notions of science and religion. On that trip Darwin discovered a new world of thought, and, like another Columbus, returned to Europe to startle and confound the world. Modern evolution was born when the Beagle sailed on December 27, 1831.

Today in Pugilistic Annals

1906—Bill Lang knocked out Bob Fitzsimmons in 12th round in Australia. This was Ruby Robert's last battle, his defeat by the third-rate fighter, Lang, finally convincing him that he was "fall in" as a boxer. Bob was forty-seven when he returned to the land where he had first won fame as a pugilist to make his indolent exit from the game in which he had once been supreme. Prior to that he had been whipped by Jack Johnson and Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, as well as by Jeffries. Bob fought his first professional ring battle in 1891, in New Zealand, and a few years later went to Australia. He came to America in 1894. He won the world's middleweight title a year later by defeating Dan Barry, and annexed the heavyweight championship in 1897 by annihilating Corbett.

1910—Percy Flynn defeated Jack Ganssman in 12 rounds at Boston, Mass.

1911—Jim Barry and Tony Ross fought a round draw at Memphis.
